

ENVIRONMENTAL POLICY

N&P Contracting is an electrical contracting company established in 2004. We complete works in a wide variety of areas ranging from commercial and industrial electrical projects to hazardous areas. Considering our purpose and context, and the enduring nature of N&P Contracting' s products, the organisation recognises the substantial control and influence it has over environmental impacts of its activities, products and services. As such, the organisation wishes to manage its environmental responsibilities systematically in order to protect the environment, whilst committing to fulfilment of all compliance obligations that apply to it, including statutory, regulatory, and self-imposed requirements.

To this end, N&P Contracting has implemented an Integrated Management System (IMS) which includes the requirements of ISO 14001:2015. Utilising this system, N&P Contracting sets IMS objectives, including environmental objectives, around which its system is based. Objectives relate to the organisation' s commitment to the protection of the environment, including the following specific commitments:

- Prevention of pollution
- Minimisation of resource use
- Maximisation of environmentally friendly practices, such as recycling
- Improvement of our workers' environmental awareness

These objectives are set and reviewed for achievement at the Management Review and are recorded in the organisation' s current Objectives Register via the IMS.

Through maintenance and continual improvement of its Integrated Management System, including achievement of the strategies and objectives, N&P Contracting commits to continually improving its environmental performance.

Paul Gregory
Managing Director

Neil McBrearty
Managing Director